

Fr. Henriques suggests there are four essential elements of evangelisation:

1. Witness of Life:

People are more convinced by deeds than by words.

2. Proclamation of the Word:

Witness of life alone is not enough. We must also talk about the Gospel.

3. Acceptance of Christ:

Evangelisation is successful when we accept Jesus and choose to live by His word.

4. Discipleship:

The person who has been inwardly converted must in turn become a witness and proclaim the Good News to others.

He quotes effortlessly and unaided from Church documents and Scripture again and again to drive home this central theme. He quotes Vatican II as putting it in these words:

"Evangelisation is the basic duty of the people of God".

And he delves back to the great command given by Christ in the closing lines of St Matthew's Gospel as the source of this instruction: "Go therefore, make disciples of all the nations..." [Mt28:19]

It is a command that comes from none other than Jesus himself.
